

Soviets Setting Up Security System In Answer To NATO

LONDON, (AP)—The Soviet Union has given strong indications recently she is planning to set up an East European security system in answer to the West's North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

It is believed that Marshals Georgi Zhukov, Vasily Sokolovsky and Konstantin Rokossovsky—all Soviet World War II heroes—are now working out details of the new alliance. They also are expected to play leading roles in the military organization.

Satellites Sign Pacts
The Soviet Union and its satellites have signed mutual assistance treaties and trade accords. But as far as is known, Red East Europe has no formal interlocking military alliance placing war resources under a single command.

British officials say Moscow's current propaganda line is practically spelling out the Kremlin's plans, which they believe will materialize at a conference Nov. 29. In a note to European nations and the United States last week, the Soviets suggested an international conference on that date to discuss European security.

Most Western Powers already have indicated they will turn down the bid. The United States, Britain and France say they will not enter direct talks with the Soviets until the Paris agreements on the freeing and rearming of West Germany have been ratified by the parliaments of the signatory nations.

Dr. Sheppard Hints Wife Had Other Lovers

CLEVELAND (AP)—Could a spurned "potential" lover with a sadistic sense of satisfaction have killed pregnant Marilyn Sheppard in a state of frenzy?

That was a question raised by Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard in a police statement read late Friday at his first degree murder trial.

The 30-year-old osteopath is accused of killing his 31-year-old wife in the bedroom of their suburban Bay Village home last July 4.

The statement, which also touched on "other women" in the case, was read to the tense courtroom by Detective Robert F. Schotke, the first Cleveland policeman to reach the murder scene.

Courtroom Silent
For the most part the statement, taken last July 10, had been a recital of events already disclosed. Then, as the slender officer read swiftly, these words suddenly jumped out:

Q. Do you know of any reason why someone else should have taken her life?

A. Possibly.

Q. Will you state the possibility?

A. Well, I don't know but I have heard of individuals who are maniacal enough that when they start something, and act like that, it becomes a compulsion, a means of satisfaction ... or something of that nature. She has spurned lovers, potential lovers.

The courtroom suddenly became dead silent as the spectators tried to fathom the detective's hurried reading of the involved passage.

All Three Cleared
He went on without pause:

Q. How many of these potential lovers did she have?

A. Three that I know of and I am pretty sure more. I am certain that there were more.

Q. Have you told the police about the three and revealed their identity?

A. Yes.

Lie Tests Scheduled In Gunfire Death Of Ironwood Woman

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A lie detector test was scheduled today at his request for the husband of an Upper Peninsula woman hunting deer police say may be either murder or suicide.

Mrs. Betty Wettberg, 38, of Ironwood, was one of six hunters to die by gunfire in the first six days of the state's big game season.

Her husband, John, an iron miner, requested the test.

Mrs. Wettberg's body was found in a hunting area near her home. She had been shot through the head. Her shotgun and a discharged shell were found near the body.

Boy Faces Charge
Gogebic County Prosecutor Theodore Albert said Friday four hunters who were in the area where Mrs. Wettberg's body was found have agreed to take lie tests scheduled for next week. Albert emphasized that he has no evidence linking any of the five with the death.

Albert said tests currently being made at the state crime laboratory at Lansing may help clear up the mystery on the woman's death.

Vanderbilt Wife On Public Relief

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Patricia Wallace Vanderbilt, fifth wife of Cornelius Vanderbilt, claiming she is "destitute and penniless," has applied for relief for herself and her 12-year-old daughter.

Vanderbilt married the attractive, 32-year-old blonde in 1948, and in 1953 obtained a Reno divorce.

After Vanderbilt's action, Mrs. Vanderbilt swore out an arrest warrant, claiming nonsupport and pleading she was about to become a public charge. She had been denied temporary alimony pending decision on a separation suit she filed against her husband.

In August of last year, she applied for public relief, saying her only assets were pawn tickets on jewelry and a mink coat.

She was told to sell the pawn tickets and return when she was actually without funds.

Friday she asked the City Welfare Department for relief. She told newsmen she and her daughter, Nanette, a child by a previous marriage, had been evicted from the East End Hotel on Tuesday for nonpayment of $1,413 in rent.

Thursday night, welfare authorities gave her $6.15 for a room in a small hotel for herself and her daughter.

Friday, mother and daughter were referred to a private charitable organization, not identified, which reportedly agreed to care for them until disposition of her separation suit.

Mrs. Vanderbilt seeks $1,500 weekly alimony plus $35,000 for lawyer's fees.

Final Vote Pushed On Peaceful World Atomic Development

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Rejecting an 11th hour Indian bid to widen talks on President Eisenhower's plan for a peaceful international atomic program, Western sponsors pushed today for final acceptance of the program.

Some Western diplomats predicted the 60-nation, political committee would okay the plan unanimously, possibly Monday.

India's V. K. Krishna Menon blocked committee attempts to reach a vote Friday night by demanding an opportunity to speak Monday on the seven-nation resolution endorsing the program. The resolution has been virtually assured of Soviet support.

Restricted To U.N.
Menon first caused a stir by suddenly tossing in an amendment to increase the circle of nations taking part in negotiations to set up an international atomic energy agency.

U. S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. quickly made plain the sponsors would agree to no such change which, he said, would open the door to nations outside the U.N.

Menon has been dickered all week with other delegates in an effort to get backing for his proposal. He gained some satisfaction when Ecuador, Burma and Yugoslavia advocated a widening of the circle of participants. But all three made clear they would not insist on the resolution being changed.

Lodge said the sponsoring nations believed such proposals "would delay matters for such a long time as to jeopardize this whole project if not indeed destroy it."

May Be Unanimous
Throughout the atomic debate, Menon has complained that the seven-power resolution placed the underdeveloped countries in the position of being asked to rubber-stamp a closed-door agreement.

Nations sponsoring the proposal are United States, Britain, France, Canada, Australia, Belgium and South Africa.

U.S. Treasury Sinks Deeper In Red For Current Fiscal Year
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Treasury says it went $7,106,000,000 in the red during the first four months of this fiscal year — about $55 million dollars more than its deficit for the like period last year.

In a statement Friday on federal finances from July 1 through Oct. 31, the Treasury said spending dropped to $21,436,000,000 from the $22,864,000,000 outlay during July-October last year. But net tax receipts also dropped off, it said—from $16,613,000,000 to $14,329,000,000.

Shot By Companion
Two more gunfire hunting deaths were reported Friday. They were Chester Buys, 33, of Muskegon and Ronald Overholt, 15, of Caledonia.

Buys was shot and killed while hunting 10 miles east of Cedarville in Chippewa County. Prosecutor James A. Henderson said he was shot by a companion, Donald James Lowing, 17, also of Muskegon.

Lowing waived examination on a charge of careless and reckless use of firearms and was bound over to Chippewa County Circuit Court for hearing Dec. 6. He was released under $500 bond.

Man Plunges To Death As Occupant Of Room Keeps On Reading

OXFORD, England (AP)—John Adams was reading in bed. Suddenly the door opened, a man rushed across the room, plunged through the window and fell 35 feet to his death.

Adams went on reading. The dead man was John Grady, a 26-year-old Irishman who lived in a hostel here. At an inquest Friday, Adams said: "I just stayed in bed reading. There was nothing I could do and it was none of my business."

Recording an open verdict, Coroner T. E. Gardiner said it was extraordinary that man should remain in bed unconcerned when someone he knew had fallen through the window. Gardiner added, however, that Adams "could not have saved Grady."

French Premier And Dulles Hold Lengthy Huddle
WASHINGTON (AP)—Reports that the Communists have assembled three new divisions in North Viet Nam focused fresh importance on a communique to be issued today at the close of top level French-American talks.

French Premier Mendes-France and Secretary of State Dulles held a lengthy huddle on the matter Friday, authoritative informants said, but so far there has been no official hint on how the two nations propose to meet the reported new threat.

Wide Field Covered
The communique also was watched for any indications of how close Mendes-France and Dulles came to agreement during face-to-face talks this week on Indochina, European and North African problems.

A final Dulles-Mendes-France meeting on "odds and ends" was set for this morning before the French leader's scheduled air departure for New York.

Mendes-France and Dulles met for two and a half hour Friday afternoon, virtually finishing their three-day review of 22 topics ranging around the globe.

Among other things, the reported creation of three new Viet-minh divisions and movement of heavy military gear into Red-held North Viet Nam in violation of the Geneva peace agreement was said to have been discussed by the French and American diplomats. The three new divisions would boost the Vietminh total to 11. Two of the new units were said to be armored.

New Offensive Hinted
This new development, it was said, raises the possibility of new offensive intentions by the Reds, either through direct military moves or threatened action aimed at bringing pressure to bear against non-Communist South Viet Nam.

Dulles and Mendes-France were understood to have agreed in large part on political and military steps to deal with the situation.

The political steps reportedly included ways and means of developing an effective anti-Communist government in South Vietnam and agricultural reform. The military measures involve use of available military equipment in the south to train and arm units of a native anti-Communist army.

Unsuccessful Campaign To Elect Don Leonard Governor Cost $46,949
DETROIT (AP)—The State Republican Leonard for Governor Committee spent $46,949 on Donald S. Leonard's unsuccessful campaign for governor.

Leonard was defeated Nov. 2 by Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams.

In a report filed Friday with Wayne County Clerk Edgar M. Bragin, the committee listed $11,739 for newspaper, radio and television advertising.

The largest single contributor was John Hettche, former state boxing commissioner and Detroit automobile dealer. Hettche gave $2,200.

The Independent Citizens for Ferguson Committee reported it spent $5,400 in an attempt to re-elect Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.). Ferguson was defeated by Patrick V. McNamara, Democratic nominee.

Michigan GOP Down But Not Out, State Treasurer Declares

LANSING (AP)—State Treasurer D. Hale Brake, declaring Michigan Republicans are "down, but not out," today talked turkey to the defeated GOP.

Brake, defeated for re-election in the state's Nov. 2 Democratic landslide, had this to say in a speech here about the ill-fated Republican campaign:

1 — The next chairman of the Republican State Central Committee must come from outstate and must have some knowledge of public relations instead of being "entirely dependent upon advertising agencies."

2 — The next Republican candidate for governor should be given a greater voice than the state chairman in campaign decisions.

3 — The State Central Committee should step into counties where the local committee is ineffective and jack up party activities.

4 — The Republicans must rely more on television and radio and less on the "old-fashioned evening rally."

Brake said much of the state ticket's defeat was due to national issues over which it had no control. "Democratic propagandists," he said, "were able to make a lot of people think there was a serious unemployment problem for which the Republicans were to blame."

"Actually, our employment was far above normal and there was no basis for any such charge against the Republican administration in Washington. It was a false issue falsely presented but it cost us votes."

Four Barns Burn In Sanilac Area
SANDUSKY (AP)—Farmers in Sanilac County kept a wary eye out for possible arson today after the fourth barn fire in the county in as many days levelled a barn on the farm of David Berden, northeast of here.

All four barns were destroyed. No livestock was lost but supplies of hay and feed were destroyed in each fire.

The first fire broke out Monday morning in the barn on the Mike Mason farm near Lexington. That night flames levelled the barn on the farm of Kenneth N. Roehl, seven miles from Mason's farm.

Early Wednesday a third fire destroyed Max Newlove's barn. The fourth blaze came the following night.

No formal investigation has been started, but there was indications that area farmers and Sandusky firemen may call for one.

Actor Sues; Won't Play Second To Sinatra
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor Sterling Hayden has filed a $250,000 suit against the producers and distributors of one of his films because, he claims, Frank Sinatra was given top billing.

Hayden, in a complaint filed Friday, said he was promised equal star billing with Sinatra in "Suddenly." He asked also for an injunction against Libra Productions and United Artists Corp. to prevent them from publishing or advertising the film in violation of the agreement.

Army Lieutenant Convicted For Mistreating Men

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—2nd Lt. Charles C. Anderson was convicted Thursday of mistreating trainees at Camp Gordon and sentenced to dismissal from the Army by a general court-martial.

The slim, 24-year-old Korean combat veteran, a native of St. Louis, also was ordered to forfeit all allowances.

The sentence will not go into effect until reviews and appeals are exhausted and this may take up to a year. Meanwhile he will remain at Camp Gordon "on some useful duty" pending the outcome.

Verdict Hurts
Anderson didn't show any emotion when he heard the verdict and sentence at the end of a four-day trial, but he told newsmen afterwards that "it hurts."

Army authorities pointed out dismissal of an officer was equivalent to the dishonorable discharge of an enlisted man, and said Anderson also could have been sentenced to six years and four months at hard labor.

The court of two colonels, four lieutenant colonels, four majors and a captain convicted Anderson on 11 specifications and acquitted him on six under Articles 93, 133 and 134 of the Uniform Military Code.

Hung By Ankles
Anderson was convicted on these charges:

Five Michigan Witnesses Balk At Red Hearing
WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Un-American Activities Committee failed Friday to get any information about suspected Communist activity in Michigan and Ohio from five witnesses.

The five invoked either the Fifth Amendment, which protects persons from testifying against themselves, or the First Amendment, which guarantees freedom of speech.

They were James G. Petroff, 26, a Detroit linguist; Alfred Milstein, a Detroit auto worker; Harold Robertson, 57, a Ford worker from Inkster, Mich.; Philip H. Halper, Berkeley, Mich., and Irene Jacobs, 32, a factory worker at Dayton, Ohio.

May Go To Jail
The five were called a day after the committee recommended to the House that several balking witnesses be cited for contempt of Congress. Conviction would carry a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Petroff refused to say whether he owned a batch of Communist pamphlets seized by Detroit police in connection with picketing of a Square D Co. plant in Detroit several weeks ago.

Petroff said he did not work at the plant but joined the picket line because he sympathized with the strikers, members of the Independent United Electrical Workers.

Milstein declined to say why he withheld from an application for a job at the Chevrolet Forge and Dumper Co. the fact he recently had been graduated from the University of Michigan. He also refused to say whether he was or is a member of the Communist party.

Refuse To Talk
Robertson invoked the Fifth Amendment when asked whether he was a Communist when serving as a union official and whether he is one now.

Halper took the same course when asked whether he had become business manager of the Michigan Worker, a newspaper which the committee described as communist.

Irene Jacobs refused to say whether she was accurately identified as a 1952 Communist party member by an FBI undercover agent.

Student Play
Opens Monday

Absence of scenery is one of the unusual features of the play, "Our Town," which will be presented Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 22 and 23, at the William Oliver Memorial Auditorium. The production will feature a cast of high school students, members of the Escanaba High School Dramatics and Thespian club.

This original play of a New Hampshire village maintains a continual dryness of tone, the New England understatement of sentiment, surprise and tragedy throughout. It also conveys a shyness of emotion among these people.

"OUR TOWN" SCENE — Two young lovers, Emily Webb, played by Sharon Greis, and George Gibbs, played by Greg Anspaugh, are shown in a scene from the second act of the production, "Our Town", which is being presented by the Escanaba High School Dramatics and Thespian club Nov. 22 and 23 at the William Oliver Memorial Auditorium. Playing an important role in the production is John LeMire, shown between the two lovers, as stage manager. (Daily Press Photo)

Stage manager in the drama, John LeMire, plays an important part as a narrator. In the first act, he generally outlines the history of the town, which is Grover's Corners, N. H., and something of the character of its citizens. He then carries the audience into the homes of the Gibbs and Webb families, substantial homes. The audience arrives at breakfast time and is carried through one entire day in the lives of these people.

The second act concerns the love affair between young George Gibbs and Emily Webb, and thus culminates in a moving wedding scene, which contains all those elements of poignant sorrow and abundant happiness that make for solemnity and impressiveness.

The third act scene is a cemetery on the hill, where many of the townspeople are patiently and smilingly awaiting not "judgment" but greater understanding. Into their midst is led the bride, a little timid at first, a little wishful to go back to life, to live again with her memories. But she is shown how impossible, how futile it is to return. The past cannot be re-lived. Living people, humans, occupied with small thoughts, know little of true joy or happiness. Truth is to be found only in the future.

John Romstad, Escanaba Senior High drama coach, is director of this modern theatre play.

Ahern Company
Suspending Work
At Hermansville

HERMANVILLE—The William S. Ahern Company, pallet manufacturers, will suspend operations at Hermansville on Dec. 31, it is reported by William S. Ahern, Chicago, owner of the concern.

The company has operated in Hermansville since the summer of 1950, leasing space from the Wisconsin Land & Lumber Company in its old flooring mill.

Notice of the plan to discontinue operations on Dec. 31 was given Wisconsin Land & Lumber Company this week and Sven Anderson, resident manager for Ahern at Hermansville, also notified the employees that they will be through at the end of the year.

There are 16 employees at the plant at present, but at the height of the company's operations at Hermansville about 60 persons were employed. This peak employment was reached when Ahern had government contracts for the manufacture of plywood cartridge case separators. This phase of the operation continued until the spring of 1954.

An unidentified hunter from Lower Michigan came within ten feet of an albino buck Wednesday while hunting west of Rock in the vicinity of the Escanaba River. He was so close he could see his eyes were pink, but did not shoot it because he thought it was unlawful to shoot an albino.

George Coan of the circulation department of the Escanaba Daily Press was up early this morning to fill his license before work. He brought down a 125-pound spike horn at 7:30 in the Hyde area.

Hunters who have bagged deer in the Garden vicinity since Tuesday are Kenneth Ralph, Kenneth Tatro, James Tatro, Erwin Thennes and Raymond Harris. Orville Mayo of Niles, while visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George May in the Isabella area also brought down a buck.

Mrs. Floyd Ackerman, Gladstone Rte. 1, hunting on the pipe line right-of-way, near Bill's Creek on the Whitefish, killed an eight point buck, estimated at 160 pounds, this morning.

Jimmy Tryan and his brother, Fritz, Ford River Township, Escanaba Rte. 1, both filled the opening day of season while hunting in the Cornell area. Jimmie's buck, an 8-pointer, weighed 150 pounds and his brother's was a 125 pound, 4-pointer.

Hospital

Mrs. R. W. Haddock, Gladstone Rte. 1, submitted to major surgery Friday at St. Francis Hospital. No visitors will be permitted in her room.

Silver Mink is Shot
On Farm Near Rock

ROCK — Charles McIntyre of Oster shot a platinum mink on Wednesday while working for Floyd Osterberg, west of Rock. Mr. Osterberg had been complaining that squirrels had made a hole on his porch and were stealing his groceries. While they were talking, they noticed an animal on the porch, but did not know what it was. While they hurriedly got a gun, the animal disappeared in a junk pile. Shooting it was quite difficult because he proved to be much more than a weasel. However, Mr. McIntyre finally got in a lucky shot and killed the animal.

It was only then they learned it was mink with silky fur like silver. They were sorry that they had used a shotgun and had peppered the animal. Whether it is an escaped domestic mink or a very rare wild mink could not be determined.

678 In County Rated In Dun's

Each January business concerns in all parts of the United States receive from Dun & Bradstreet requests for their annual financial statements. This year the number of requests going out nationwide will exceed three million, with over 600 going to Delta County businessmen.

The growth and the industrial development of Delta County is reflected in statistics just released by the credit reporting firm, Lloyd Outland, manager at Green Bay which covers this area, says that this year there will be more requests for financial statements made of business concerns in Delta County than ever before.

The Delta County section of the November issue of the Dun & Bradstreet Reference Book contains 678 local names comprising manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers. It does not include some of the service and "professional" businesses, such as barber and beauty shops, real estate and stock brokers. Thus the figures for businesses in Delta County would actually be higher than the 678 quoted above.

During 1955, Dun & Bradstreet estimates they will be required to make about 350 changes in the listings of business enterprises in Delta County. These changes will result from adding the names of new businesses, and deleting the names of those who have discontinued; as well as accounting for changes in ownership, trade names and credit ratings.

Should a manufacturer or wholesaler receive an order for merchandise from a merchant in Delta County, the listing and the rating of the merchant can be checked in the Reference Book. And it makes no difference where the seller is located. The listing of the Delta County businessman appears in every issue of the Reference Book in the United States.

A Reference Book listing contains the names of the business and the rating. The rating consists of two symbols. The first, a letter of the alphabet, indicates financial strength or capital. It is the difference between what the business owes and what it owns. The second symbol, a numeral reflects a composite of financial stability and payment record.

Only Dog Owner Must Pay Its Tax

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — How about that stray pup that attached himself to your children and you started feeding? Are you responsible for him? Not in North Carolina, says Atty. Gen. Harry McMullan.

Dog owners are required to have their animals vaccinated for rabies, he ruled, but the law doesn't apply to a person who doesn't own a dog, even if the pooch lives at his house.

PERSONAL AFFAIR

MILFORD, Conn. (AP) — The board of education granted a teacher a three-day leave of absence for a honeymoon. The board acted under a regulation which permits teachers a certain amount of time off for "personal business."

Philadelphia's Athenaeum is a library formed by six young graduates of the University of Pennsylvania in 1814. It now has more than 90,000 volumes available only to members.

CITY OF CONTRASTS — While scores of squalid wooden shacks, like those in the foreground, are still used to house many of Tokyo's 7,000,000 people, new, concrete apartment houses (background) are rising rapidly all over the city. The wooden shacks were built in 1946 on the former drill field of the Japanese army.

Reporter Gets Death Threats

YONKERS, N. Y. (AP) — A death threat was telephoned to the home of a veteran newspaper reporter early Friday shortly after chunks of concrete were thrown through windows of his home by three or four men who fled in an automobile.

The reporter, Arthur E. Chambers Jr., 54, has been employed on the Yonkers Herald-Statesman for some 25 years. He covers police, fire and court news for the paper. He said he had no idea who would want to harm him.

Three plate glass windows of the newspaper office also were smashed, and officers found a note saying: "Get rid of Chambers, you."

The first incident, at Chambers' home took place about 1:30 a. m.

Three or four men were observed getting out of a car, throwing missiles through three upper floor windows and four first-floor windows. The men then got back in the car and sped away.

Chambers summoned police and while they were still on the premises investigating, the phone rang. Chambers' wife, Elsie, answered and a man's voice said:

"Next time your husband's going to get shot in the head."

A flare, such as used to warn persons of building construction going on, was tossed into the newspaper office. The flare continued to burn but did no damage. A veteran of World War I, Chambers is in command of the city-wide auxiliary police unit dealing with civil defense. He lives with his wife and daughter, Arden, 21.

Blooming Cactus On The Rampage

HAMPTON, Va. (AP) — "Cactus gone crazy" is what Mrs. B. F. Black thinks of her 16-year-old night blooming cereus plant. It is supposed to bloom once or twice a year, but it is working overtime. It has bloomed five times this year, the last time with ten blossoms, and it doesn't wait until the customary hour of midnight to perform.

Trenary Junior Class Play Is Mystery-Comedy

TRENARY — The mystery-comedy play, "The Skeleton Walks" will be presented by the junior class of Trenary High School Monday, Nov. 29, at 8 p. m.

The plot for this mystery is laid in a lonely old house situated on a small island connected to the mainland by only one bridge. To this deserted place come Elaine Blair, her lawyer-fiancee, and her mother to look over the property which Elaine has inherited at her uncle's death. To their surprise they find the house in the possession of a suave and mysterious physician, Dr. Fersig. The old house is worthless, but both Elaine and Dr. Fersig know that a large sum of money is hidden somewhere on the premises.

Dr. Fersig's schemes to discover the money and Elaine Blair's efforts to thwart him in his plans constitute the main action in the play, with many comical, and sometimes suspense-filled, sidelights provided by Elaine's friends and Dr. Fersig's servants.

Jack Orava plays the role of Dr. Fersig, with Sylvia Pasanen as Elaine Blair. Others in the cast are Rosalee Trowbridge, Wilmer Latvala, Patsy Brant, Bob Debelak, Donna McMillan, Roy Green, Nancy Goodman, and Irma Savola. The play is directed by Frank R. Bartol.

PARKING REPORT

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Charles Dodge, assistant police chief, smiled when a man telephoned he was tired of driving a stolen automobile and would park it at a certain place, but the car was found where the caller specified.

State Briefs

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Four right-hand-drive postal delivery trucks have arrived here for use on Western Michigan mail routes. Three will go into service at Muskegon and one at Harbor Springs.

Grand Rapids Postmaster H. Wayne Parker said they are the first vehicles of their kind to be assigned to this section of the state. The right-hand-drive, familiar to motorists in Europe, was adopted by the Postal Department for rural routes.

FLINT (AP) — Gordon C. Hill changed his mind at the last minute, decided not to run over a cardboard box in the road.

He swerved his car sharply and barely touched the box. Outclimbed 10-year-old Danny Cousineau. Only his foot was injured.

PIGEON (AP) — Mrs. Matilda Gordon, believed to have been possibly Michigan's oldest woman at 105, died at the home of a great, great nephew in Pigeon Wednesday.

DETROIT (AP) — Construction contracts in southern Michigan in the first 10 months of 1954 were reported Friday by F. W. Dodge Corp. to have topped the total dollar volume of any previous full year. Dodge said they totaled $1,020,649,000.

DETROIT (AP) — The Department of Street Railways (DSR) has ordered its bus drivers to wear either a coat or sweater while at the wheel. Reason: So they can judge the heat needed. The (DSR) reported sizzling complaints from riders who said coatless drivers were burning them up in buses.

Fees Of Justice Depend On Code

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank G. Millard retreated slightly today from an opinion which cut justice of the peace fees in traffic violation cases.

Millard previously had held that justices were limited to a $2 fee in a traffic case where there was no trial. They had been collecting $4.30.

In a new opinion, resulting from protests by the justices' association, Millard said his first opinion was true only on traffic control orders promulgated under the 1949 Motor Vehicle Code.

The $2 fee limit does not hold for cases prosecuted under the 1931 penal code he said.

Both laws give the state police and highway commissioners power to impose traffic control orders on trunkline highways. But the 1949 vehicle code imposes penalties of $100 fine or 90 days in jail, while the 1931 penal code imposes penalties of $100 fine or 10 days in jail.

Whether a justice may charge a $2 fee or more depends on which law cases are brought before him, Millard said.

The State Highway Department said there are about 1,500 traffic control zones in effect on the highways and that until now violations tickets made no mention of which law the prosecution relied on.

Hereafter, said J. C. McMonagle, traffic division head, traffic tickets will have to specify which law was violated so that justices know what fees to charge.

He said that in the future control zones would be promulgated under the vehicle code and that eventually the penal code zones would vanish.

Identified Bike By Dents On It

BISMARCK, N. D. (AP) — Police Captain Gordon Kern looked over some bicycles children had brought to headquarters to be licensed.

Dents in a fender of one bike looked familiar, so Kern checked the serial number. The bicycle had been stolen from his own son, and then was sold to another boy for $6.

Democrats Feel They Have Good Prospect For Governor In Hart

By JACK I. GREEN

LANSING (AP) — If Michigan Republicans are confused and disorganized following their Nov. 2 defeat, the Democrats face the future with confidence and strength.

Even if Gov. Williams steps out of the state scene two years hence, the Democrats feel they have a hand-made successor ready and a campaign machine as smooth and perfect as one could ask.

The successor in all eyes now is Lt. Gov.-elect Philip A. Hart of Birmingham and let no one tell you he isn't some whiz as a campaigner.

Buildup Begins Early
Hart's rise in politics has been rather slow and unspectacular until this year.

He was around the capitol as legal adviser to the governor, corporation and securities commissioner, federal price administrator, and federal district attorney for a good share of Williams' first six years in office without impressing many on the outside with anything but brains and an exceptionally nice personality.

Two years ago, as the unsuccessful Democratic candidate for secretary of state, Hart impressed a few observers as a really fine public speaker but he certainly didn't set the woods on fire.

But Williams, searching for a crown prince, apparently fastened on Hart and began to build him up slowly, finally choosing him to run for lieutenant governor.

In fact, Williams broke all precedents by plumping for Hart in the primary to make certain of his victory over the Teamster Union candidate, George S. Fitzgerald of Detroit. Hart won hands down and in the process seems to have caught Democrats' imagination.

In any event, Hart went into the fall campaign like an old hand, and—if you can believe a lot of observers—actually stimulated more personal affection among the voters than Williams himself ever enjoyed.

Unmatched As Speaker

In fact, Hart seems to have fallen heir not only to Williams' official mantle, but to the late Blair Moody's unique place in Democratic hearts—the place of the loved one.

Hart is a slender, boyish gent with eyeglasses and a most likeable grin. He did as intense a campaign as this state has ever seen and what's more proved himself a platform and television speaker unmatched in present day Michigan politics.

In the next two years, Williams intends to use Hart as a sort of vice-governor. The people probably will see lots of him.

Thus the presence of Phil Hart gives the Democrats a very real advantage over the Republicans, a tested candidate on hand who can be built up for next election while the Republicans are still groping for a leader.

Mild Fall Boon To Bear Hunters

LANSING (AP)—Michigan's current mild weather, the bane of deer hunters, may prove to be a boon for sportsmen out for bear.

Conservation Department officials say the state's bear population can be expected to be out in force during the warm weather—getting in a last-minute snack before their long deliberation.

The more of them that go foraging, wildlife experts say, the more chance hunters have of getting a kill.

Unlike deer, which are apt to be very cautious in their movements through dry, noisy woods, bears don't seem to care how much noise they make. This, of course, makes for even better hunting.

Michigan's bear season coincides with the deer season, which opened Nov. 15 and closes Nov. 30. Hunters need only a deer license to kill bear. They can kill any bear, regardless of sex or age, but are limited to one of the animals each year.

Last year, Michigan hunters killed an estimated 1,200 bears.

The best bear country is in the Upper Peninsula, the department says, notably in the Hiawatha National Forest. Parts of Lapeer and Chippewa counties are good, too.

The Angels Fell

THE STORY: Paul Flagg is being questioned in the murder of District Attorney Barnett Larkin, who apparently followed his wife Dina, to Paul's apartment. Dina, who once was married to Paul, now is missing and Paul knows she is deeply involved but wishes to protect Joey, small son of Paul and Dina, from being involved indirectly in a murder case.

XII

Randolph snorted. "Now that's really hair-splitting. What were you trying to do—protect her?"

"I didn't see where Dina visiting me had anything to do with Larkin having been murdered."

Randolph smiled. "You didn't see, but as soon as you heard officially that her husband had been knocked off you dashed to her house."

"I thought she might need me at a time like this."

Handy said: "You and your ex-wife are pretty close, aren't you? She even visits you at your place."

I looked at Handy's rigid, small-featured face. "You told me you're not a regular cop."

"So?"

"So if I push your face in," I said, "I wouldn't be assaulting an officer."

Handy started to rise.

"Sit down, Handy," Ernie snapped. "I'm the investigating officer here. 'I'd like you to remember that too, Randolph.'"

"It seems to me, Chief, that you're merely skirting the edges," Randolph said. "Let's get down to the real thing. Flagg, we know quite a lot about what happened—up to a certain time, and considerable after that. We know that yesterday at approximately 2 o'clock Dina Larkin phoned you at your office from Raventon. You arranged a date for her to come to your house. We know that she took the 3:28 local from Raventon to West Amber. We know that she arrived in West Amber at 4:42 and took a cab to your house."

"Roy Perry's cab," Ernie said. "Please, Chief," Randolph said. "I'm concentrating on essentials. Now let's get back to Barnett Larkin. Early yesterday afternoon he used his office machinery to try to locate his wife. Needless to say, he would have done that only if he was extremely anxious. He sent Russ Handy to his home to try to trace her from there. He sent a city detective attached to our office to the railroad station. The ticket agent knew Mrs. Larkin. He said she had bought a ticket for West Amber and had left on the 3:28. It was about 4 o'clock when Mr. Larkin got the word. He left immediately in his car. We know that about 5 o'clock he stopped off at your place of work and inquired after you. He received directions from a young man named Jack Dwight."

Handy said: "It's plain that the D. A. knew where his wife was going and didn't like it."

"With a briefcase," Ernie said. "A bulging briefcase," Randolph cut in. "The ticket agent noticed it because Mrs. Larkin put it down when she paid for the ticket. The taxi driver noticed it and so did Mrs. Gallagher. We think she was taking something to you and that Mr. Larkin knew it and hurried to West Amber to intercept her. What was in the briefcase, Flagg?"

Let them ask Hannah Rahn. But I didn't say that. I said: "I don't know a thing about it."

"Why did she make the appointment with you?"

"She didn't say."

"Obviously to bring you the briefcase," Randolph's pinched face got hungrier. "And we know that your actions aren't accounted for between 10 minutes to five and 5:30."

"I was out on business."

Ernie Watrous said: "I heard about that—how you came back to your office and said Mrs. Rundthal wasn't home." He glowered at Randolph as if expecting to be interrupted. "I spoke to Mrs. Rundthal and she agreed that she wasn't home at that time. But you were gone 30 or 40 minutes and it takes only five minutes to drive from her house to yours."

"I waited quite a while on Mrs. Rundthal's porch."

"You told them at your office that you weren't coming back, but you did."

"I decided to go back and catch up on some paper work."

"Did you?"

"As a matter of fact, I got into a conversation with Martha Paley and then Ted Gallagher wanted a lift home, so I didn't get a chance to do any work."

Randolph said: "Am I to understand that you made a date with Mrs. Larkin to come to your house and then you didn't bother to go home?"

"She said she'd be there in the evening. I assumed that meant after seven or eight."

"She said she'd be there in the evening. I assumed that meant after seven or eight."

Randolph's hungry smile got fat. "I assume you know Mrs. Jones."

My frown was genuine. "I imagine I know several people by that name, but I can't think of any at the moment."

"This Jones lives in the house nearest yours."

I visualized the name then, on a mailbox on Blackberry Lane. The tiny brown house was some 500 feet from the Gallagher house, and in it lived a shriveled old woman and her aging son who worked for the railroad. I knew what was coming.

"Shortly after 5 o'clock Mrs. Jones heard two shots. A few minutes later she heard a car pass. In the car were a man and a woman. It came from the end of the road, which means it could have come only from the house in which you live."

Here's why our membership in the A.B.C. is important to our advertisers and ourselves: At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors makes a thorough inspection and audit of our circulation records. The results of this exacting audit show: how much circulation we have; where it goes; how it was obtained; and many other FACTS that advertisers need as a sound basis for their advertising investments. This audited information is published by the Bureau in easy-to-read A.B.C. reports which are available to our advertisers on request.

*The Audit Bureau of Circulations, of which this newspaper is a member, is a cooperative, nonprofit association of 3,575 advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers. Organized in 1914, A.B.C. brought order out of advertising chaos by establishing a definition for paid circulation; rules and standards for auditing and reporting the circulations of newspapers and periodicals.

Studebaker Official Dies In Auto Crash

ALBION (AP)—Automotive official Alfred F. Eissler, 57, of South Bend, Ind., died Friday night after an automobile accident on a rural road near Homer in Calhoun County.

Coroner R. D. Scott said papers found in Eissler's pocket identified him as a regional manager of the Studebaker-Packard Corp.

Scott said Eissler apparently lost control of his car and rolled over into a ditch.

Eissler was taken to Sheldon Memorial Hospital here and released after examination. He was then booked in the Albion city jail on a disorderly charge.

Scott said Eissler was returned to the hospital after he complained of pains. He died at 10:30 p. m. EST.

A coroner's inquest was ordered to determine the cause of death.

Dr. Sheppard Hints That Wife Had Other Lovers

A moment or two later the thin-haired police veteran finished reading the statement with a closing note by Dr. Sheppard that "hope you will give me the opportunity to give you additional information when and if I shall be able to remember or I find it."

Later, the prosecution said it had no idea what Dr. Sheppard meant about the "potential lovers." But it insisted all three persons mentioned by the defendant had been "checked out completely and cleared."

Soo Driver Safe After Car Plunges Into Pine River

ST. IGNACE—The story of how a driver escaped possible drowning when his car plunged into the Pine River was told today by Michigan state police of the St. Ignace post.

The driver was identified as Bernard E. Roy of Sault Route 1 and one report, which was unconfirmed, was to the effect that he didn't even get wet when his car hit the river about 1:25 a. m. Thursday.

Police said Roy was driving west on M-134; he told them he fell asleep at the wheel as he approached the Pine River bridge, and was awakened when his car started to strike guard posts at the bridge approach.

Police said Roy saw he was headed for the river, and as the car hit the water, he rolled down a window, clambered to the top of the sinking car, and grabbed onto the bridge as the car was sinking beneath him. Police said he swung up from the bridge, onto the highway, and hailed a passing car for a ride to St. Ignace. He reported the accident at 2 a. m. at the St. Ignace post.

Grappling in the muddy river resulted in location of the car, and its recovery Thursday afternoon. It was approximately four feet under water, but out of sight in the muddy water, police said.

Lift That Bale-Easier

Tests are under way seeking ways to make work easier. By knowing exactly how much energy is expended on doing a job, improvements in techniques can be devised. A DuPont laboratory is using a newly invented Lauri Platform in the study. Sensitive crystals measure the energy expended and translate it into electrical impulses. Made in France, the platforms cost $20,000. Only two are in existence. In the work so far, some interesting facts have been brought to light. In the argument as to who does the hardest work in the home, husband or wife, it was found that peak energy of a man painting a ceiling was only one sixth of a man lifting a 50-pound bag. Peak energy in ironing a shirt is about twice as great as the painting. In the debate concerning the work of a housewife vs. office work, some facts were accumulated. The energy output in filing papers in four drawers was found to be twice that of ironing a shirt. Effort when serving a tennis ball nearly equals the output of the man lifting a 50-pound weight.

Tests with Gale Hochgraf prove filing takes much energy.

Slightly Cooler Forecast Here

A change to cooler with a few flurries of snow late today and throughout tomorrow is forecast by S. E. Decker of the local weather bureau.

Precipitation will be a mere dusting, however, says Decker, and the change from today's weather will be very slight.

Yesterday's high of 43 cooled off very slowly last night and the low of 35 was reached about 10 a. m. today. A rise to about 45 degrees may be expected this afternoon and a low of 34 tomorrow morning. Rain began falling in the western part of the U. P. which will likely turn to snow by night-fall and influence conditions generally in these parts. Snow fell last night at Marquette and rain at the Soo, but temperatures are still the same in those places as they are here.

In sharp contrast to the mild weather this area is experiencing. El Paso, Texas, had a low of 32 this morning. Spencer, Ia., had the lowest temperature in the country, 20 degrees. International Falls, Minn., had the most snow. An inch was recorded there.

Bootleg Liquor Plant Raided Near Muskegon

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Federal agents uncovered a bootleg liquor operation Friday after a Grand Rapids policeman found five gallons of bootleg liquor in a car he stopped for a traffic violation.

Robert J. Danhof, assistant U. S. attorney, said agents found a dozen barrels partly filled with mash in a raid at the farm of Robert McKinney, 36, about 10 miles northeast of Muskegon. Agents also confiscated numerous bottles with traces of homemade liquor and a quart of moonshine.

McKinney was held in Ottawa County jail in Grand Haven on a federal charge of possessing tax-unpaid alcoholic beverages.

Federal agents were tipped on the case after William Moroski, Grand Rapids policeman, stopped a car making an illegal turn early Friday morning. He found five gallons of moonshine inside.

Held for questioning were the four occupants of the car, Charles Pierson, 61, Robert Mallette, 40, Burley L. Wiley, 45, and Nathaniel Atkins, 44, all of Grand Rapids. They disclosed the location of the McKinney farm, police said.

Danhof said federal agents have been investigating reports of moonshine operations in the Muskegon area for several months. He said the investigation will continue since no still for making the illegal liquor was found on the McKinney farm.

French Premier Faces Communist Offensive Threat

the training program has not been fully resolved, informants said. It is regarded apparently as a delicate question.

France Has Troubles

The bulk of the conference time was understood to have been devoted to Far East problems, although the French and American leaders were reported to have talked about France's troubles with North Africa, Nationalists and about Franco-German relations, particularly in relation to the dispute over the coal-rich Saarland.

Diplomatic informants said Mendes-France has shown a considerable degree of agreement with U. S. points of view.

On one point, Dulles was said to have assured Mendes-France of firm U. S. support for a proposed agency to police arms production and accumulation by European nations which have entered into new defense agreements that involve West German rearmament. However, Dulles was understood to have reiterated that this country will determine how to apportion its arms aid to the various nations.

Speaking before the National Press Club Friday, Mendes-France clarified his position on a variety of points. He said:

1. It would be "childish, unrealistic and even dangerous" to accept Russia's bid for an immediate general conference on European problems.

2. It will be "a point of honor" with France to ratify by year's end agreements on rearming Germany, regardless of possible Russian concessions.

3. The West must make itself strong militarily, economically and politically before seeking any major agreements with the Soviet bloc.

4. He looks on fighting communism as his "No. 1 task" and is determined to remake the French economy so it will provide his people hope for better living.

5. France and West Germany can end their old enmity and cooperate because their interests now coincide.

Buck Waits For 15 Minutes To Be Shot By Ironwood Hunter

IRONWOOD (AP)—A complacent deer with little apparent concern about the deer hunting season will furnish meat aplenty for the Dick Bennett family during the winter.

Mrs. Bennett spotted the two deer while she and her husband were driving past an open field three miles north of Ironwood. But they were too far away to tell whether they were bucks or does.

So the Bennetts drove 2½ miles back home and returned 15 minutes later with binoculars and a rifle. The deer were still in the field.

A peep through the binoculars showed the biggest one was a buck, so Bennett fired. He bagged an eight-point, 200-pound buck for their family larder.

The crocodile family includes two species of alligator and five species of cayman.

Jewelers — 1123 Ludington St.
Walter G. Pearson, Prop.

THE ENGAGEMENT of their daughter, Katherine Anne, to William John Griesser, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Greisser of Palatine, Ill., is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Frechette, 534 Woodward Ave., Iron Mountain, former residents of Escanaba. A June wedding is planned. Miss Frechette, a graduate of Kingsford High School in 1952, is a senior in nurses training at Wesley Memorial Hospital School of Nursing in Chicago. Her fiancé is a graduate of Western Michigan College of Education, Kalamazoo, where he affiliated with Sigma Tau Gamma. He now is serving with the Army and is attached to the Fifth Machine Records Unit in Chicago.

Your Baby

Lovely, lovely terry cloth. Baby, when dressed for the night, is a fashion plate in his two-piece terry suit, modeled like a clown's, with elastic at neck, waist, wrists and ankles. He's warm enough and free to wiggle when he wakes up tomorrow. Terry T-shirts that never get ironed and always look smooth are male and still cute on a toddler. Like cotton jersey and corduroy, it's the fabric mothers seek high and low and rejoice when they've found.

A Baby is not a doll, and he's not going to look like one. It may revolt you to have Baby grab your arm with a little hand well-anointed with prunes and cereal, but your skin will wipe off as well as his. And he must be mussy—he doesn't and shouldn't know any better when he's first learning to grab things. So put away the frothy carriage cover and beribboned pillow. Let him grow as he must rather than conforming to someone else's idea of a "darling thing."

Does it fold? Does it have wheels? If it's "yes" to both, it'll probably be good furniture for Baby's room. Folding is a cogent point because Baby grows out of his furniture as swiftly as he grows out of his clothes. You'll

Ceremony Unites Cheryl Walker, Robert Pepin

The Rev. Harold Fuller, S. J., uncle of the bride, today officiated at the nuptial ceremony of Miss Cheryl Jean Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Walker, 1310 3rd Ave. S., and Robert Bruce Pepin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pepin, Gladstone Rte. 1. The 10 a. m. double ring service took place at St. Patrick's Church.

Traditional wedding music was sung during the ceremony by St. Patrick's choir. Bouquets of mums decorated the altar.

Attending the couple were Miss Joanne Johnson as maid of honor and the bridegroom's brother, Gary Pepin, as best man.

Bridal Attendant

The bride was attired in a baby blue street length dress of glazed silk. Styling the dress was a fitted bodice with a round yoke adorned with tear drop rhinestones and a full skirt over crinoline. She wore winter white and navy accessories, and carried a colonial bouquet of white and baby blue mums.

Miss Johnson wore a princess style brown faille dress with matching brown accessories. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow and rust mums.

Mother of the bride wore a two piece gray faille suit-dress with red accessories and a corsage of mixed fall flowers. Mrs. Pepin attended her son's wedding in a dress of light blue taffeta with

Live In California

Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served at the Eagles' club for 30 guests. A reception will be held at the Eagles' club for 150 guests from 4 to 8 p. m. Assisting in the serving will be Janice and Dorothy Schefer of Green Bay, cousins of the bride.

The new Mrs. Pepin will wear a navy suit with navy and winter white accessories when the couple leaves for a wedding trip to Riverside, Calif., where the bridegroom is stationed at March Air Force Base. They both are graduates of St. Joseph High School.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Schefer, and Janice, Dorothy and Dickie Schefer, Green Bay, and the Rev. Harold Fuller, S. J., of Holy Rosary Mission, Pine Ridge, S. D.

Gloves this season are more decorative—and decorated—than in a long time. They are embellished with embroidery and beads, French knots, and almost anything a designer's ingenuity can conjure up.

Abrasive cleaners should not be used with a heavy hand. This is hard on the surface and wearing itself is intended to do the work in combination with the friction of the cloth or sponge.

Doing any painting at your house? Protect windowpanes, when painting a room, by coating each pane with a thick soap-and-water paste. When you've finished painting, the paint splatters will wash off easily with the soap.

Paper Company's Family Visitation Program Is Builder Of Good Will

Twice each week—Monday and Wednesday evenings—groups of Escanaba Paper Company employees and their families are escorted through one of the community's largest industries, so that father can show the family where he works and how his job is a part of the paper-producing operation.

Officials of the Mead Corporation, parent concern of the Escanaba Paper Company, describe it as a "visitation program," but the workmen and their wives call it "going through the plant."

The visiting program is now in its fifth week. It will continue into January, with about 100 persons per week making the rounds to learn the story of Mead papers.

Plant One Of The Best

"We are proud of our plant in Escanaba and of the people who work in it," George Douglas, Mead division manager, and Ernest G. Bennett, Escanaba Paper Company president, tell the employees and their families.

And the employees are equally proud of the industry's fine record of production of high quality papers, used in many of the nation's leading magazines, in books, stationery, and many other items. For the Escanaba division is one of the best of the 13 plants operated by the Mead Corporation.

An average of 185 tons of coated papers and groundwood specialties are manufactured in the Escanaba division each 24 hours, providing employment directly to over 500 persons and indirectly to an additional 500 working on wood operations.

The group of 50 visitors is divided into smaller groups, each with a guide, and the tour begins. The visitors are told that they will follow the "flow of operations" in the plant, viewing the successive steps used in the mill to produce Mead papers.

Use Much Water

From the rough wood (over 25,000 cords of wood, mainly spruce and balsam are used each year) to the bark, through the grinders that reduce the wood to pulp, the visitors observe the raw materials go through various processes to become paper. Sulphite and sulphate pulp to provide the long fibers required for strength in the paper are purchased in bale form.

THE INDUSTRY'S PROGRAM—Plans for expansion of the Escanaba Paper Company's operations, when the local power shortage problem is solved, are described to the employees and their families by Ernest G. Bennett, Paper

An adequate supply of filtered water is needed to produce high quality paper, and at the Escanaba Paper Company plant over 2,500,000 gallons are processed each day. In addition the other water requirements of the plant bring total daily water consumption up to more than 5,000,000 gallons—an amount equal to that used by a city of 50,000.

The water of the Escanaba River is harnessed to provide hydroelectric power, as well. This supplements the electric power produced by steam—generating total power sufficient to supply Escanaba, Gladstone and the surrounding rural communities as well as the Paper Company.

Not Enough Power

But the total is not sufficient to meet peak load periods—and when the "power squeeze" does occur it is necessary for the Paper Company's own operations to be cut back.

For this reason, and because Mead Corporation is planning expansion of its paper making operations here that will use all of the electric power now being generated, Escanaba, Gladstone and other power customers have been advised to look for a supply elsewhere.

The power situation and its effect on the Escanaba division of the Mead Corporation is explained to visitors on their tours of the paper plant. A chart in the power house illustrates the industry's problem.

"If you want your company to grow, help the Escanaba City Council to act," the employees and their families are advised.

In talks to the groups, President Bennett and Division Manager Douglas review the three proposals for solution of the power shortage and conclude with the opinion that the Upper Peninsula Power Company's offer should be accepted. Private power would give the quickest and most satisfactory solution to the power shortage problem, from the viewpoint of the Paper Company.

Paper Company Loses

The display in the Paper Company's power house shows that a total of slightly less than 20,000 kilowatts generating capacity is possible from both steam and hydro. Of this total, about 18,000 kilowatts is generated by steam, while only about 2,000 is "dependable" hydro power.

Maximum electric power load in the Delta County area, and needed by its industries at peak, is over 20,000 kilowatts—so, when the peak hits the system the Paper Company must cut back its operations to provide power for its customers. "And that's no good for anyone," visitors are told.

While the story of Mead paper manufacturing at the Escanaba division appears to be surrounded with power difficulties as of this period, the long-range outlook is anything but discouraging. Major expansion will be possible when Escanaba finds another power source, and some expansion is scheduled next year when the city of Gladstone completes its municipal power plant.

On large tracts of land trees are being planted that will provide the raw materials for the next generation of papermakers, and on today's tree farms selective logging is practiced to insure an ample supply of raw materials for future operations.

ed down to the packing plant at Peshigo by her and that means more work.

In spite of having handled hundreds of head of cattle—many of them as surly as cattle can be, she has had very little trouble. She knows cattle and they seem to have a wholesome respect for her.

Once Ran Dairy Farm

It is hard to believe that in spite of all their activity, the Bennetts once operated a dairy farm. Such is the case, however. They milked as high as 20 head of cows and sometimes more when some cow Gertrude had purchased showed possibilities.

But they have eased up on this work. Mrs. Bennett's advanced years makes it advisable that she slow down a bit. They still milk a couple of cows and Mrs. Bennett, besides taking care of a seven-room house, keeps a flock of about 100 large and beautiful white rock chickens. "There is still plenty to do," she says with a smile.

Woman Paints House

So definitely feminine is the Bennett homestead that even the home, which received its coat of white paint this summer, was painted by a woman. No, it wasn't either Gertrude or her mother. The former didn't have time and Mrs. Bennett said she "just wouldn't."

"One of my granddaughters, who attends teachers college at Marquette, needed some extra money to pay her way," said Mrs. Bennett, "and I said to her, 'if you'll paint the house and milkshed, I'll pay you for it' . . . She did a pretty good job, don't you think?"

She had indeed and Mrs. Bennett takes pardonable pride in the fact that the rugged individualist trait in her family has been carried on to the third generation.

Little Time For Hobbies

"Have you any hobbies?" Miss Gertrude was asked. "Well, I haven't time to indulge in anything of the sort," she replied, "but I do like to hunt. It's lots of fun to walk through the woods and along the creeks. I used to do quite a bit of trapping . . . and I've shot my share of deer. But it isn't so much fun to kill a deer that has become so tame that it comes right up into your barnyard and licks salt with the cattle."

Her big hobby right now is a streamlined tractor that has more gadgets "than you can shake a life you've lived for so many years . . . So we decided to stay and see just what we could do." It was in 1938 they were left alone. The idea of leaving now or even easing up is entirely out of their minds.

Handles Many Cattle

Miss Bennett's livestock buying activities takes up at least two full days of every week—often more. She spends one day of each week at the Cloverland Livestock Sales barn where she is one of the active bidders on the cattle put up for auction.

Buyers at these auctions, of course, "know their stuff." Their business permits of very little guesswork. They like to test each others judgment on matters of weight and quality of the cattle placed before them. Those who err are in for much good natured banter by the others. The times they have gotten the best of "the lady buyer" are extremely few. They have utmost respect for her ability. She knows all of the hundred-and-one points to consider and has her answer ready in a fraction of a second. Times without number she has guessed closest to this or that steer's or calf's weight.

Her buying activities throughout the countryside cover a radius of about 25 miles. The cattle must be cared for before they are shipped and that means an extra feeding, loading and reloading chore. Most of these purchases are truck-

Mother And Daughter Operate 328 Acre Farm At Rapid River

By J. R. LOWELL

About three miles north of Rapid River on old US-41 is a 328 acre farm. Seventy acres of this sizable tract is devoted to grain and forage crops and much of the rest to pasture. The farm is well kept and serves its owners well. A casual observer would place it in the same class with scores of other well ordered farms in the area.

This particular farm, however, can lay claim to one distinction that sets it apart from the others. It is owned and operated by a 79-year-old widow and her daughter.

Mrs. Chester Bennett and her daughter Gertrude do all the work about the farm—caring for a sizeable number of livestock, plowing, putting in crops and harvesting—doing all of the work that falls the lot of the average farmer. The only time they hire any men is when the seeding and harvesting rush is on.

Also a Cattle Buyer

And in addition to this man-sized part she plays in running the farm, Miss Gertrude fills another role that is every bit as arduous as farming and much more out of the ordinary. She is a cattle buyer—rated by those in these parts who ply this vocation as the best judge of a "critter" among them. She acquired this skill from her father, the late Chester Bennett, who for many years was prominent in this activity. He often took Gertrude along with him on his trips and took great pride in her aptitude.

What has prompted these two women to carry on this unusual and arduous activity?

Two things. Adversity and love for their home. "We were hit pretty hard when Mr. Bennett died," Mrs. Bennett wistfully explained. "And then when my boy died about a year later, leaving Gertrude and me all alone on the farm, we just didn't know where we were at . . . We did think about selling the place, but you know it isn't easy to pick up and leave a

Former Escanaba Nurse Tells Cf Health Problems In Alaskan Bush

An interesting report on living and working in the Alaskan "bush" is told by Miss Marilyn Lesway, R. N., former Escanaba resident and a niece of Mrs. John Jacques, who resides at Garden. Miss Lesway is a petite Elmhurst, Ill., nurse, who received her training at St. Mary's School of Nursing, Chicago. She is the daughter of Mrs. Celia Lesway, Elmhurst, and the late Kenneth Lesway.

The following article appeared in the Elmhurst Press recently: Marilyn Lesway, who has spent seven months with the Alaskan Nursing Service, in Bethel, near the Bering sea and the Arctic circle, has found that the patients do not cry in the land of the Midnight Sun and has discovered that stateside rules of hygiene must go by the board and im provision is more important than rigid rules when it comes to nursing in "the bush."

Her first hospital in Bethel was a quonset hut with 20 beds. One doctor and nine girls, only four bush pilots fly in those who live further out.

Home calls are made to Eskimo sod huts, buried in the tundra and snow for insulation, with one window opening skyward. Fish nets are spread on the roof, and Marilyn writes, "It's a good thing I'm no taller than five feet," for the ceilings are low. The native family sleeps on bunk-like beds, with dirty rags for a mattress. Heat and light are provided by smelly stoves burning seal oil. Dirty pans entrusted with fish "out of which everyone in the family eats" are scattered about.

Patients Aplety

These far-from-ideal hygienic conditions provide them with patients aplety, but Eskimos are wonderful patients, Marilyn writes. More than three-quarters of the patients are under three years old, and she loves the babies with "their cute fat faces." TB is rampant, and there is a waiting list of two to three years for TB bed patients.

Since her initiation as an Alaskan nurse in a quonset hut, Marilyn has seen the opening of the 70-bed hospital in Bethel. "Hot and cold running H₂O," Marilyn reports enthusiastically, "and such cleanliness and comfort that, for an Eskimo mother, a trip to the hospital is like 'going to heaven.'"

Plenty of stamina and a sleeping bag are required for field trips. On one four-day trip last spring, Marilyn, Dr. Ferger and the bush pilot traveled in a C-47.

"We left Bethel Friday morning and arrived in Chanliak at the mouth of the Yukon on the Bering sea," Marilyn writes.

At the small outpost village—population 100—the medical team set up a clinic in the only available public building—the schoolhouse. With the teacher enlisted as an assistant, they began work on their patients, which included practically the entire population. It was the first visit of a doctor to Chene-liak in five years! The doctor turned dentist for the day, as poor teeth are one of the main problems. While he pulled 198 teeth, there wasn't a single whimper from the stalwart Eskimos.

Using the sign language, Marilyn took X-rays of 75 of the 100 population. She used any available spot for a dark room—a broom closet, store room, a cloak room with blankets hung over the windows and doors.

Also included in the field trip were Scammon bay, Chevak and Hooper bay, all similar to Chene-liak. It seemed like luxury to return to Bethel, with its small modern hospital, equipped with its own power plant.

Life near the Arctic circle is not dull for the American nurses, who have plenty of work and plenty of fun. There is an American Air Force base across the muddy Kili-waskum with plenty of dancing partners available for Saturday night square dances.

Although fresh fruits and vegetables are flown in only once a week, Marilyn writes that the hospital chef, an ex-army sergeant, is an expert in powdered cookery.

PAULA GAFNER, age 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augie Gafner, 826 S. 15th St., Escanaba, is the winner of this week's Picture of the Week contest conducted weekly by the Escanaba Daily Press. A $5 prize is being mailed to Miss Gafner for this picture of her kitten taken during the past summer. Paula, who is a 7th grade student at the Junior High School, reports that there was a tragic sequel to this picture. The kitten was killed by an automobile shortly after the picture was taken. A Jiffy Kodak camera with a fixed lens was used to take this picture.

Fly Ash Is Used To Strengthen Concrete For Bridge At Straits

MACKINAC CITY—Everytime a housewife in the Detroit area turns on an electric light, she is indirectly aiding the construction of the foundations for the Mackinac Straits bridge.

Fly ash, once regarded as a useless industrial waste, plays an important role in the construction of the bridge. Without it, foundations would tend to expand and contract, causing crack.

Eight carloads of the powdery material with the queer chemical properties are shipped here daily to be loaded into barges and sent out to mid - Straits where it is sucked into the floating cement plant operated by the Prepak Corp., one of the principal sub-contractors on the bridge project.

The electric power demand in the Detroit area and anti-smoke ordinances are indirectly connected with the Straits bridge project through a simple supply and demand operation.

Avoids Excess Expansion

Ordinances prohibit air pollution; steam electric generating plants make smoke; the smoke must be abated through the use of precipitators and the fly ash must be disposed of. The Trenton, Mich., plant of the Detroit-Edison Co. is one of the few steam electric generating plants in the state capable of collecting the volume of the fly ash for the bridge project. Thus the more electric lights are snapped on in Detroit, the greater the volume of fly ash.

Explaining the use of the former waste product, Raymond E. Davis, project engineer for Prepak, said,

"It is a water soluble silicon that is slightly acid. In combination with concrete which is alkaline, its presence in the concrete mixture inhibits the formation of heat, thereby avoiding excessive expansion in foundations and also avoiding the troubles connected with contraction of foundations when they lose their heat."

Generation of heat in massive concreting operations has long been an engineering headache on such major projects as Boulder and Grand Coulee Dams.

Fly ash is believed by bridge engineers here to cut heat generation by as much as 30 to 50 percent, and to have cut construction costs by several thousands of dollars. Unofficial estimates place the amount saved near the $3,000,000 mark.

In fact the fly ash in combination with a patented substance known as an intrusion aid that was developed by Prepak, plus the usual ingredients of concrete combine together to form a type of concrete that will be as hard as the rock on which the bridge foundations will rest, according to Prepak engineers. Test blocks of the concreted ingredients can be used to break similar-sized blocks of aggregate rock such as the dolomite rock used to fill the cofferdams and caissons on the bridge project.

The discovery of fly ash properties has unfolded an entirely new concept in the field of construction science. Used in conjunction with the intrusion aid, it tends to cut down on the amount of cement required in making good concrete by such volume that construction specification laws in many states are being revised to accommodate the "new concept in concrete."

And while the housewives of Detroit may help make the fly ash, the housewives of this community have their own story to tell about the properties of fly ash.

When Monday's wash day comes along, they hope that the wind is in the right direction because the "bagged smoke" that goes into the bridge foundations raises a dusty pall over the harbor here as 16,000 cubic yards of the fly ash are unloaded daily into the waiting barges.

Estranged Wife Fails To Trap Husband On Driving Violation

DETROIT (AP)—Traffic Judge John D. Watts acquitted Elio Muccianete, 32, of Detroit, on a charge of driving without a license Thursday after ruling Muccianete was trapped into the charge by his estranged wife.

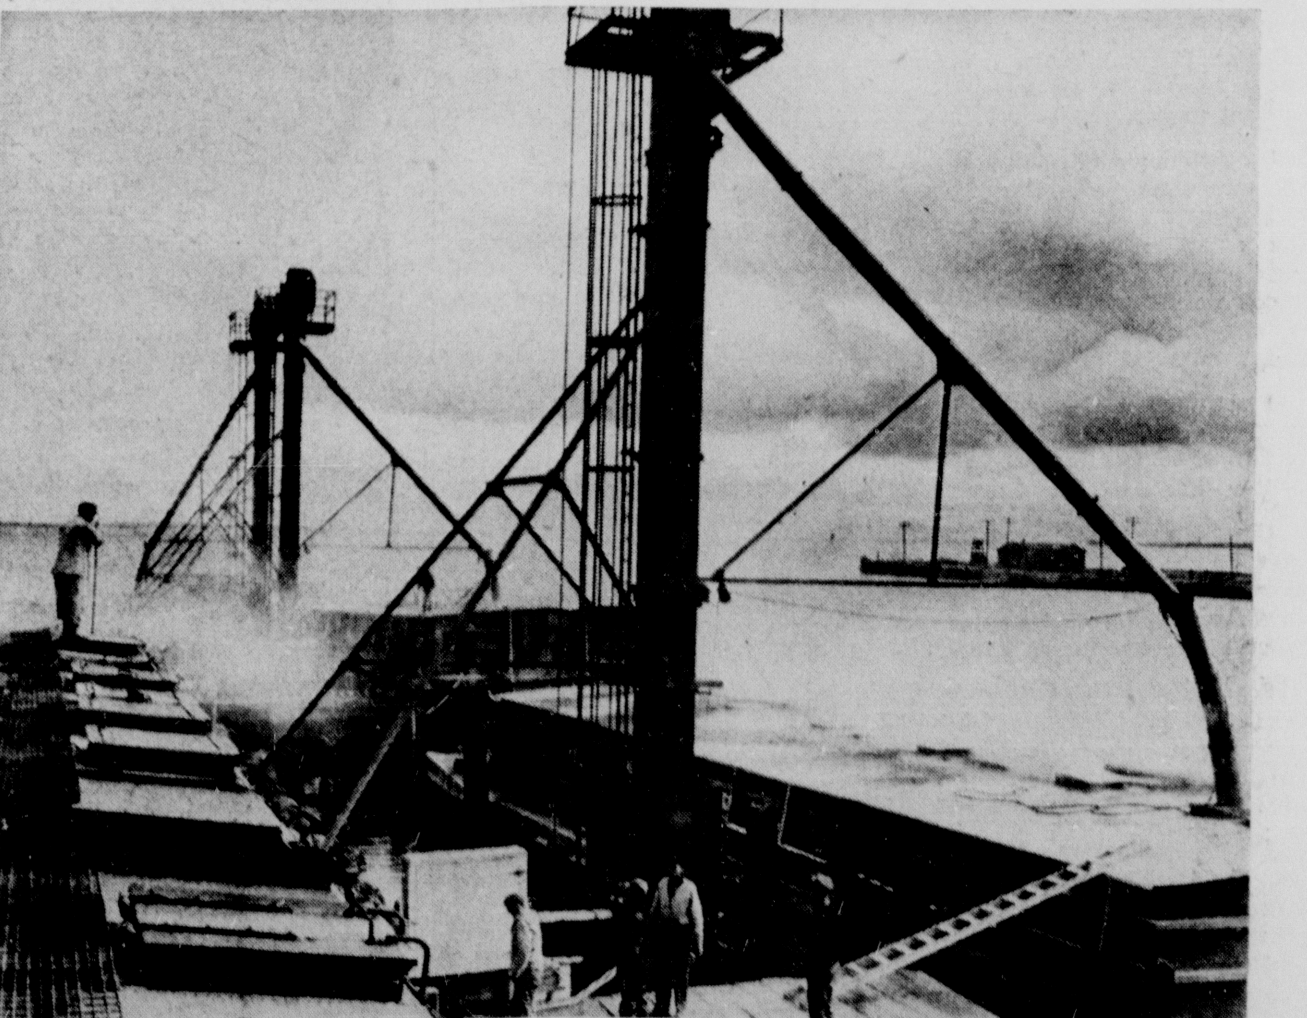

Muccianete told Watts his wife had telephoned him to meet her in a drugstore Tuesday night saying it was urgent.

When he got to the drugstore Mrs. Muccianete called police and told them her husband was driving with a revoked driver's license. They arrested Muccianete.

Judge Watts ruled the act constituted entrapment, the wife couldn't testify against her husband and the officers did not actually see Muccianete drive the car.

"Any horses on the farm?" "Oh yes, we still have old Bill. He's on social security. He'd be just as well off if we sold him to some mink ranch. . . . But you know, you get kind of sentimental about something that's worked hard for you. Besides, my brother thought a lot of him."

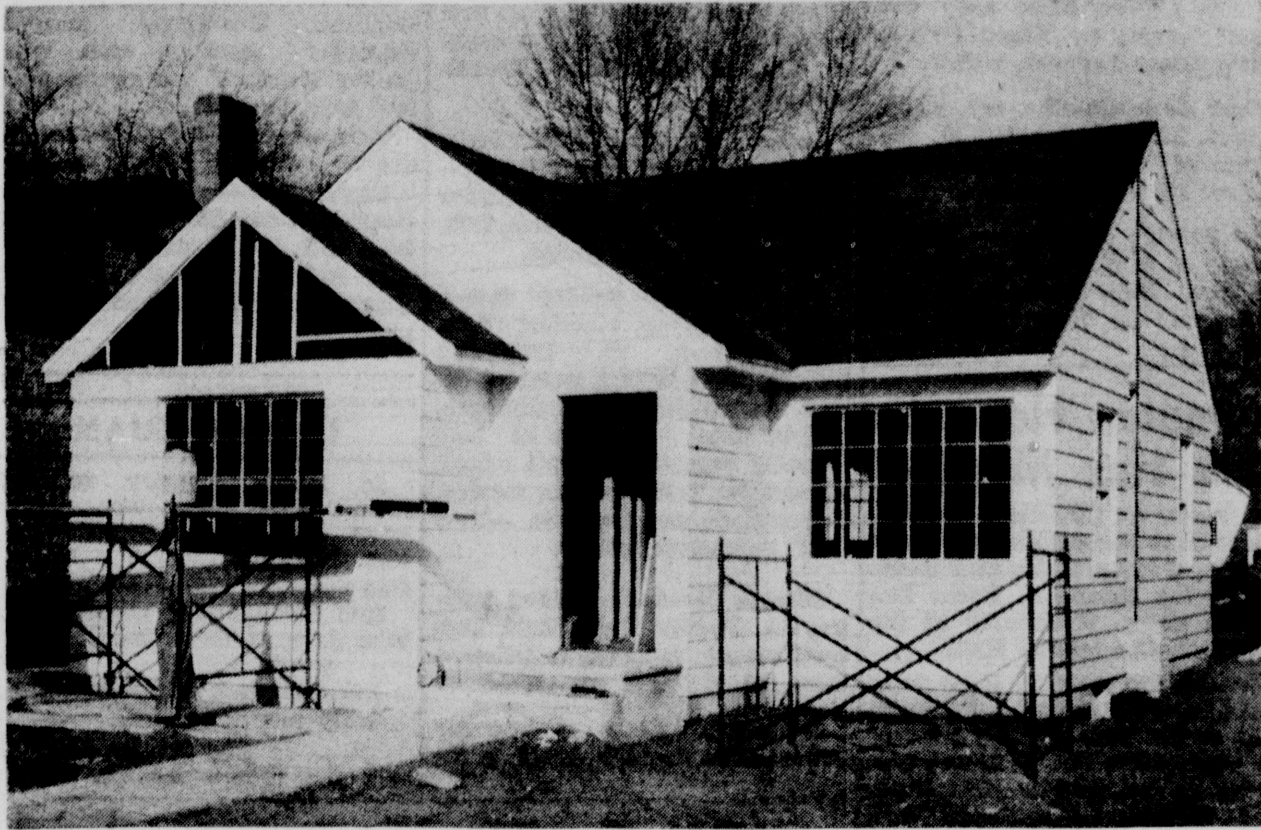

EIGHT CARLOADS DAILY—Powdered smoke for the Mackinac Straits Bridge foundation is shown above being loaded aboard barges at Mackinaw City. The once useless fly ash, a waste product from smoking plants, has chemical properties that make it an ideal agent for making cement go farther and producing a solid form of concrete that is as hard as rock.

ALUMINUM SANDWICHES now herald new possibilities in solar heating. These are designed for roofing to store up so much heat from the sun that it can heat our homes even through long rainy spells. Massachusetts Institute of Technology is testing the idea. Here's how they're made: On a large sheet of aluminum, a complicated design, like a street plan, is traced with what is called stop-weld. Then another sheet of aluminum is placed over this weird picture and the two are rolled through a hot press which welds them into one panel. They are sealed at all points except where the stop-weld has been painted. This process is roll bonding.

A needle then is inserted at one end of the panel and hydraulic pressure raises into an embossed design the pattern made by the stop-weld. This creates a continuous tubular passage throughout the panel.

If water should be circulated through such panels on your roof, allowed to heat by the sun and automatically stored in insulated tanks, you'd have a solar heating plant. That's what MIT is working on.

In announcing this sandwiching process, the metals division of the Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. stated: "Roll bond panels could form the walls, ceilings, or floors of the home. The hot water passing through the panels provides proper temperature control. MIT reports that a roof made of roll bonded sheets is the most efficient means yet found for trapping the heat of the sun."

comes a daily question when she looks at drab walls or a cigarette burn in the sofa or dull floors. Here are some queries from readers. Perhaps the answers will help you solve a problem here or there:

Q. I am putting new appliances in my kitchen. Should I choose the new colored ones or stick to plain white?

A. If you are the type who becomes bored easily with color or who likes to change your home around from time to time, colored appliances will not please you. Since a big investment is required it is best to choose appliances in white which will go with everything, and to plan paint, floor covering, curtains and other accessories in your favorite colors. When you tire of the colors you have selected for walls or accessories you can always change them at small cost.

Q. I wax my floors frequently but they never seem to retain their shine.

A. Perhaps you use a polish containing water which will dull wood floors.

Q. Will a paint roller do the entire job of coating my walls or will I need a brush to smooth it in.

A. A brush is not needed except at corners and at ceiling where an unpainted area will be left when the roller goes as far as it can.

Q. I have a painted primitive type chest and I'd like to remove the paint to discover what wood is in the article. There are layers and layers of paint and design to be taken off.

A. Before you remove the paint, perhaps it would be well to discover whether you could integrate the piece into your home. These

Metal Does Tricks In Home Building

MANY NEW TRICKS are being performed with metal in home building.

Complete houses are now being built with welders' torches instead of carpenters' hammers. The same thin curtain-wall panels that have made it possible to enclose a skyscraper in less than a day are now adapted to houses. And new wrinkles in metal rolling have brought us a step nearer to solar heating—the dream of using the sun's rays instead of a furnace.

Skyscraper style houses have been built in various locations. Lewis Berry has one at Hanover, N. J. It was put together entirely by welders. Thomas A. Kindre, who watched the job, made this report about it in Steelways, trade publication of the American Iron & Steel Institute:

"This erector set house hasn't a nail in it and the only wood that hungry termites will find is in its doors. But even more significant in the fact that the steel framework is not just a one-time stunt. You can buy it, prefabricated to size."

"Home builders in some parts of the country are already using steel roof trusses, so light that two men can carry them, yet strong enough to span an entire house so no interior walls need to be load bearing. Others are using lightweight steel floor joists in the same way to eliminate cellar columns and floor beams—and also to cut costs. A major steel company has in the works a new all-steel house, which will hit the market within a year."

LIGHTWEIGHT steel floor joists are now designed along the lines of a cantilever bridge. Taking the place of heavy timbers, they are lifted into place by one man. H. R. Davidson used them in his new house in Zanesville, Ohio.

"Better check the power line to your home workshop, advises Kindre, "and lay in a supply of metalworking tools. The day may come when the wrench and the welding torch will be as familiar on the home repair scene as the carpenter's hammer is today."

CURTAIN WALLS have been one of the smartest developments in skyscraper construction. For the home builder they are of interest not only for speed of erection, but also because a 4-inch wall built with these metal curtains shows better insulating qualities than 12 inches of masonry. Such walls were used to add more office space to Pittsburgh's huge Gateway Center. In porcelain enameled form they sheathe Dallas' new Statler Hotel as well as towers in Los Angeles and Denver. Norman Tishman used them to set a record by enclosing a 22-story building at 460 Park Ave., New York, in 9½ hours. He used panels two stories high con-

3 More Days To Name Hospital

Just three more days remain in which to submit names in the Memorial Hospital Name Contest, local residents are reminded.

The deadline for suggesting names is 5 p. m., on Tuesday, Nov. 23. Only entries which are posted and in Box 26 at the Gladstone Post Office will be given consideration.

From the entire list of name suggestions, the five considered most appropriate will be selected at a meeting of the Hospital Authority that same evening at 8 at the City Hall.

These five will be submitted for consideration of the general public and the person suggesting the name most favored will be awarded a prize of $25. In case the winning name is submitted by more than one person, postmarks will be checked to determine the person submitting it earliest and that person will be the winner.

It is expected that Baldwin Township which approved joining the Hospital Authority at the general election early this month will have its authorized representative at the Tuesday evening meeting.

Entomologists estimate there are as many as two million different kinds of insects.

When shopping is heavy down town, and you notice a couple of dozen pedestrians standing in the street waiting at the red light, watch out. A small child, whose mother is holding its hand, may suddenly break loose and step out into traffic. Jostling in the crowd may push somebody forward.

Going past a crowd of pedestrians at 25 miles per hour and missing them by only a foot or two is as foolish as standing on a railroad track and stepping off just a foot or two before the train arrives. It is a set-up for disaster. So, slow down for crowds of pedestrians. Don't pass too close to them — be prepared to stop quickly — dodge quickly.

Sewage Plant Being Checked

Engineers from the firm of Drury, McNamee and Porter, successors to Shoecraft, Drury and McNamee, the Ann Arbor firm of engineers which designed the Gladstone sewage treatment plant were in Gladstone this week for the purpose of inspecting the plant and restoring it to service.

W. S. Herbert, principal assistant engineer, spent only a few days here and then returned to Ann Arbor while A. F. Miorin, another engineer with the firm remained here for the present.

City Manager H. J. Henrikson said the principal difficulty at present appears to be in getting the digester tank and settling basin cleaned out so that inspection may be made.

He quoted engineers as saying the plant appeared in pretty good shape considering it has been in active use for the last 17 or 18 years.

When the tank and basin are cleaned out Miorin will determine what, if anything is wrong with the plant, if there is damage to any extent and suggestions will be made as to how to remedy the trouble and get the plant back into operation.

In the meantime, tests made daily of the city water supply by City Water Analyst Flora LaRoche reveals the supply to be safe for human consumption.

Jury Finds Man Guilty In Red Derby Gun Case

A justice court jury of three men and three women Friday afternoon found John Charles Attard, 25, of 15120 Prospect Ave., Dearborn, guilty on a charge of breaking and entering.

Justice E. J. Doyle assessed fine of $100 and costs of $4 and sentenced the man to serve 60 days in the county jail. He will serve an additional 30 days if fine and costs are not paid.

Attard was arrested Jan. 28 in Pontiac by Manistique State Police, after he was implicated by Lawrence Suban, of Detroit, who shortly before had been arrested by Detroit police. Suban was the principal state's witness during the trial here.

The Dearborn man was accused of breaking and entering the Red Derby hunting camp on M194, on the High Rollways in Manistique township, on the night of Nov. 16, 1953. It is owned by Elmer A. Ziems of Rossford, Ohio. Suban had told Detroit police that he entered the Red Derby and also Tylen's resort at Garden Corners, taking guns, and that Attard was with him.

Attard pleaded not guilty when arraigned here Jan. 28, and was released under $4,000 bond. Bond of $1,000 also was furnished by him at that time in Delta County, where he had been held on a charge of felonious larceny.

During his trial here Attard, who was represented by counsel, maintained that he and Suban had had a quarrel and that he had returned to Lower Michigan without him. He also denied any connection with the break-ins.

In cross examination by prosecution, Attard gave the time of his departure here and arrival at the straits and in Lower Michigan, but these did not correspond with bus schedules in effect at that time. The justice court trial commenced at 1:30 p. m.

Suban, who is under protective custody of the Detroit police department, came here accompanied by Det. Jack Kellner of the Detroit holdup squad.

MHS Chemistry Classes Have 55 Enrolled

Manistique High School this year has 25 seniors and 30 juniors enrolled in chemistry classes taught by Carl Olson, principal, and Lowell Cooper.

Students meet for seven periods per week and have some double periods to afford time for laboratory work. In addition, outside readings and reports on material in scientific works, magazines and "home-life" type magazines are required, to emphasize the importance of chemistry in the modern world.

In the classes students are given a foundation for college work in inorganic, organic, physical, biological and analytical courses.

Students begin with studies and experiments dealing with chemical and physical change. They learn of mixtures, compounds, and the properties, occurrences and uses of common elements. They also learn scientific methods of handling, combining and preparing chemicals. These include working with test tubes, flasks, bunsen burners, forceps, etc.

Also stressed in chemistry classes is the role of exactness in chemistry experiments and the need for safety.

KANEHOE MARINE AIR STATION, Oahu (AP)—Marine Staff Sergeant William R. Burkart has developed a new type mount which permits aerial photographs to be taken from transport type helicopters. The inexpensive mount, Burkart said, would be ideal for training men in the principles of aerial photography.

The Days Ahead

In another week, the sound of guns in the forests will be stilled, and the freshness of the woodlands will be renewed with a blanket of snow.

Most of us now are thinking of the buck that did or won't get away, and of the Thanksgiving holiday next week.

But before we know it, the Yuletide will be here. It's early to be thinking of it, yet our thoughts wander there as we hear reports of practice sessions of the Manistique Choral club. Its annual concert—a gift to the community for Christmas—is one of the finest musical events, and represents the highest ideals in community living.

Children's Reading Habits Improved, PTA Speaker Says

Children's reading habits have become better and, in the past 10 years, there has been 100 per cent increase in publishing of books for children, Mrs. Ian McKilligan, Manistique librarian, noted Thursday night at a meeting of Lakeside-Central PTA in the Junior High School.

Mrs. McKilligan stressed the importance of reading for all studies and her talk was illustrated with a display of children's reading material available in the library here. The program was in observance of National Book Week.

Also on the program was a piano selection, "To Spring," by Edward Greig, played by Carol Swanson.

Awards for highest PTA membership percentages went to Mrs.

Membership in the PTA unit is still open, it was stressed at the meeting. The group is striving for a 100 per cent membership this year.

During the business session, members voted to contribute money for new standards, flag cleaning and badges for Cub Scout Pack 460 which it sponsors, and Lawrence Stewart, pack master, asked for more den mothers.

Refreshments were served by mothers of 3rd and 4th grade Central students and Mrs. William Mueller poured. Fall flowers and Pilgrim candelabra centered decorations.

Sports Roundup

A profile on one of boxing's bright boys had to be junked by a national magazine because, among other things, he's an Army deserter with a dishonorable discharge, a holdup suspect, a participant in shady fights and thoroughly tied up by the mob.

The country's biggest bug on pro football must be baseball's Paul Richards. . . . The old Texas sports scribbler has seen the Los Angeles Rams coast to coast. . . .

Everywhere he's been a head coach, Woody Hayes has been embroiled in first-year trouble that's threatened his job. . . . because he worked the boys too hard. . . . It started with a rebellion by the parents at New Philadelphia, O. . . . followed him to Denison U., his alma mater, where the squad was on the verge of mutiny until Woody held a meeting of apology. . . . and reported with mutterings at Miami of Ohio and Ohio State. . . . But how can you argue with success—capped, of course, by the '54 Buckeyes?

Casey Stengel's not so perturbed about shortstop, because Billy Martin may emerge from service sooner than expected. . . .

Only once has Don Ameche talked to Alan Ameche (a very distant cousin)—long distance via Don's invention, the telephone. . . . to try to persuade Alan to go to Notre Dame, back when The Horse was a Kenosha, Wis., high school senior. . . . What's this about a Big Ten backfield star playing his fourth year of college football. . . . after a freshman enrollment at St. Thomas of Minnesota?

If, as he claims, Bob Christenberry has never met Frank Carbo, all he's got to do is drop into Jack Dempsey's catarium almost any night. . . .

The reason's never been made public why the American League owners were so eager to ship the A's off to Kansas City, while snubbing the Philly group ready to put up the shekels. . . . Willie Mays was sent to Puerto Rico to shield Nature Boy from any acquaintance with the bright lights. . . . Two years away from baseball haven't dimmed Dom DiMaggio's bitterness toward Lou Boudreau. . . .

Look for a Southwest Conference runner-up to meet a Southeast Conference runner-up in Jacksonville's Gator Bowl. . . . with probable choices Baylor and Georgia Tech. . . .

Bob Woodruff says thrice-beaten Auburn's the toughest team Florida has seen this year. . . . and he'll be glad to get rid of Miami's Gordon Malloy after this season. . . . "I've had to worry about him for five years now," says Bob, "ever since he was a freshman at Georgia Tech." . . . Why's everybody so upset about Tommie Bell? Navy seniors Phil Monahan and Alex Aronis played freshman ball at Saint Mary's. . . .

A year ago, Giant quarterback Charley Conerly was being belted so much by the Philadelphia Eagles that, according to a linebacker, "he actually begged us in the second half not to hit him any more. . . . But you got to respect a guy who'll come back this year for more—and beat us." . . . For 20 years at Clemson and Florida, publisher Joe Sherman took in 1884 games. . . . This year he hasn't seen one. . . . although he's one of the men who assembles the nation's grid statistics for the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau. . . .

Between you and me, has any heavyweight champ done a better job of disappearing from print between fights than Rocky Marciano? . . .

Fine Less Than Long Distance Call

HASTINGS, Neb. (P) — When Matt Shoemaker of Hastings got home after a drive from Kearney, Neb., he found an overtime parking ticket from Kearney police on his car.

He called long distance to ascertain the penalty and learned he should mail the police a dime—covering the time he was over-parked.

Key Was Found But Room Was Gone

ISHPEMING, Mich. (P)—Postmaster John T. Burke received a hotel key in the mail recently. The key, of the variety forgetful guests can return by dropping in a mail box, was marked "Room 16, Nelson House."

The Nelson House was destroyed by fire in 1929.

EQUALS

Women in Burma have equal rights with men where property is concerned. Husband and wife live on terms of greater equality there than in any other country in the world.

Buckeyes, Wolverines In Feature Tilt Today

CHICAGO (P)—Ohio State takes on unpredictable Michigan today before 82,000 fans at Columbus in an all-or-nothing battle.

At stake for Ohio State is the undisputed Big Ten football championship, a trip to the Rose Bowl, a perfect season and possibly the mythical national championship.

The game will be televised nationally.

Should Michigan win, the two teams would tie for the Big Ten title and the conference directors would have to vote to determine which team would go to the Rose Bowl.

Vote To Be Taken

Even if Ohio State wins, the vote will be taken, but in this case it would merely be a formality.

Other conference games pit Indiana against Purdue, Minnesota against Wisconsin and Northwestern at Illinois.

In non-conference action, Notre Dame is at Iowa in what could be a scorcher and Marquette is at Michigan State.

Indiana and Purdue battle for the Old Oaken Bucket and the winner of this game can claim the Indiana state championship since Purdue has defeated Notre Dame.

Minnesota, enjoying one of its best seasons since the heyday of the Golden Gophers, hopes to beat Wisconsin and finish second.

Battle of Fullbacks

That will be possible only if Michigan loses to Ohio State. Staging a private battle will be two of the best fullbacks in the conference, Bob McNamara of Minnesota

Sport Shorties

Dee Tyson, Brandeis University halfback, works as a chef in a New York restaurant in the summer.

Jim Lee Howell, coach of the New York football Giants, also coaches the Wagner College grid-ders.

Johnny Maje hit 539 home runs in the major leagues playing for the Cardinals, Giants and Yankees.

Two new records were set on opening day at Delaware Park race track this season. The crowd of 19,517 was the largest opening day affair and the $1005,198 wagered through the mutual machines topped all previous first day betting records.

In eight seasons of pro football, Detroit Lion halfback Bob Hoerschemeyer has averaged over 500 yards rushing per season.

Frank Smith, 26-year old relief pitcher for the Cincinnati Redlegs appeared in 50 games during 1954.

Age No Handicap To Ex-Grid Star

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (P)—Capt. Joseph C. (Jumping Joe) Clifton, Navy's star fullback during the 1920s, returned to the football field Friday and led his Memphis Naval Air Station to a 23-6 win over University of Tennessee Martin Branch.

"People will probably think I'm crazy," says 46-year-old Jumping Joe, "but I just wanted to do it so, Dammit, I did."

The stands cheered wildly when 175-pound Clifton trotted out on the field at the start of the fourth quarter wearing the number "35" he made famous at the Academy. Navy was leading 7-6.

Clifton, running fullback, smashed for 13 yards on the first play. He carried six more times and gained ground on all but one try. Playing linebacker on defense, he made or was in on seven consecutive tackles.

Clifton, the station's skipper, said "I never enjoyed anything so much in my life. And the boys liked it too. They said: 'come on Captain, we'll make a hole for you, they won't even touch you.'"

Clifton, who was graduated from the Academy in 1930, last played football in 1937 for Pensacola Navy. However, he worked out off and on this year.

Known throughout the Navy as a friend of the enlisted man, Clifton is often called a "Commissioned Bosun's Mate," which, in sailor language, means he's as tough and as salty as they come.

Dodgers Will Remain In Brooklyn: O'Malley

BROOKLYN (P)—The Brooklyn Dodgers will remain in Brooklyn and there are no present plans to move or sell the club.

President Walter O'Malley returned Friday from a tour of the Caribbean winter baseball leagues and reaffirmed his stand on keeping the team in Brooklyn.

O'Malley added "there is no league discussion scheduled to discuss moving the club and I have no present plans to move or sell."

Help Wanted

State Agencies Ask 338 Million; State Must Trim Requests

LANSING (AP)—State agencies have asked the Legislature for almost $95 million more next year than this year's $243,903,000 general fund appropriations.

State Controller John W. Lederle left no doubt that the requests would be drastically trimmed before they were submitted to the Legislature. He said the $338 million in requests were "far beyond the capacity of the state to finance."

Department requests are $41 million more than the amount asked last year.

Weighting its figures to account for the recent voter approval of the Conlin plan to revise the sales tax diversion amendment, the budget office said the public schools would get $106,222,000 from the general fund, compared to $59,102,862 this year. If the Conlin plan had not been passed, the demand on the general fund for school money would have hit $225 million.

Of the total requests, $68 million is for new construction and $270 million is for operating expenses.

Court Appointee Vote Held Over

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate consideration of the nomination of John Marshall Harlan to be a justice of the Supreme Court was forced over Friday until the next session of Congress in January.

A judiciary subcommittee deferred action at the request of Sen. Eastland (D-Miss.).

Eastland said he and a number of other Democratic senators wanted to get more information about Harlan's qualifications before acting on the nomination. He added that he did not know whether they would oppose confirmation after further investigation.

Republicans and Democrats have an agreement that no controversial nominations will be considered in the present extraordinary session of the Senate, now in recess until Nov. 29. So Eastland's objection meant the nomination must go over until the next Congress.

Harlan, is now a judge of the 2nd Circuit Court of Appeals, embracing New York, Connecticut and Vermont. He was confirmed for this position by the Senate last Feb. 9.

President Eisenhower nominated Harlan to fill the vacancy on the Supreme Court caused by the death of Justice Robert H. Jackson.

Patent Monopoly Charged To RCA

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department has filed an anti-trust suit against radio corporation of America (RCA), charging the company with monopolizing the radio-television patent-licensing business.

Acting Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers announced the civil action was brought in Federal District Court at New York City.

The suit raises no monopoly issue with respect to RCA's far-flung manufacturing enterprises.

The action charged that since about 1932, RCA has monopolized radio-television patent-licensing by means of a conspiracy aided by American Telephone and Telegraph Co., Western Electric, Bell Telephone Laboratories, General Electric Co., Westinghouse Electric Corp., and others.

These companies are not as defendants in the action.

A principal complaint in the suit is that RCA holds some 10,000 patents or patent rights in the radio-television field and that it follows a policy of "package licensing" under which other radio-television manufacturers must buy all of the RCA patents, rather than one of more on selected items.

The government asserted that RCA licenses its patents to almost all radio-television manufacturers in the country.

At the end of the academic year, he said, boards reopen cases involving academic deferments to decide whether the deferments should be continued.

Students can obtain application blanks from any draft board.

KEEPING THE WRONG CARDS

The average player makes the great mistake of keeping high cards where they can't do him any good and, as a result, misses countless opportunities for trick-saving end-plays. Here is just one more illustration of this common failing:

South dealer.
 Both sides vulnerable.

♠ J 4 2	♥ 7 6 3	♦ K 7	♣ 10 5 3
♠ A 10 9	♥ 8 5	♦ Q J 10	♣ 9 6
♠ K 7 4	♥ A 3	♦ A J	♣ 5 4 2

The bidding:
 South West North East
 1♥ 1♠ 2♥ 2♠
 4♥ Pass Pass Pass

West, as he admitted later, gave serious consideration to bidding four spades, which might be a makable contract or at worst a good sacrifice, but he finally decided against this course of action—which was a fortunate decision for his side.

The diamond queen was West's opening lead. Declarer won in dummy and led a trump, capturing East's queen and feeling very unhappy when West showed out. South led another trump, and East was glad to exit safely with a diamond.

Having taken the diamond return with his blank ace, South now led a trump to the table and doubtless hoping that East would not cover the ten, led that card and passed it. East, however, was not the ostrich type—he did cover the club ten, and after that South didn't have the ghost of a chance.

It was more than a little silly for South to keep the blank ace of diamonds in his hand, making it easy for East to exit! All South had to do was to cash that ace before putting East in with the high trump. Then, if East exited with a diamond, South would get a ruff-and-discard; with a club—South would duck and lose only one club trick; and if East led any spade, South could easily set up a spade for the vital trick.

Never Before such performance with regular grade gasoline

New Shell Gasoline, regular grade, contains TCP—Shell-developed additive that stops the greatest cause of power waste

If the engine of your car was designed to operate on regular grade fuels, you can now take advantage of the remarkable gasoline additive, TCP*, first introduced in Shell Premium Gasoline exclusively.

New Shell Gasoline (regular grade), with TCP, benefits engine performance in two ways. First, by "fireproofing" combustion chamber deposits, it effectively controls pre-ignition. Second, by changing the deposits on the spark plugs from conductors to non-conductors of electricity, TCP additive stops misfiring. Each plug fires as it should, preventing fuel waste.

Gives performance never before possible with regular grade fuel

By correcting these engine troubles, Shell Gasoline (regular grade) with TCP gives an increase in acceleration, in smoothness of engine operation and in mileage.

Because engine deposits form constantly, continued use of Shell Gasoline (regular grade) with TCP is essential to retain its benefits. Now at all Shell Dealers.
